Dear Harry:

As usual, the Agency's Training Office did an excellent job of setting up a series of briefings for my Foreign Policy Seminar on December 9. All members of the group gave the session high marks, and I'd like to acknowledge the excellent job done by [Redacted] in arranging the visit to your Headquarters.

Please pass along my sincere thanks to [Redacted] our Training Director, for hosting the lunch, and to [Redacted] for his superb overview of the Agency's functions. Finally, [Redacted] did an outstanding job, within security requirements, of providing the seminar with an appreciation of the political, social and security issues facing Central America. [Redacted] I am personally pleased that the Reagan Administration seems to be getting a similar realistic message on this vital question through to the American public.
